Call for Nominations: Award for Excellence in Teaching 2023

Topic
The Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin Award for Excellence in Teaching will be presented in the academic year 2023 on the topic of "International Teaching and Learning".
This year, teachers and teaching/learning projects are being sought who have succeeded in an outstanding way in introducing international and intercultural dimensions into teaching.

Nominations
Nominations are open to courses that contribute to the internationalisation of teaching and learning at Humboldt-Universität. This can be achieved, for example, through teaching formats and concepts that:

- bring together international learning groups and teams
- organise teaching together with universities abroad
- are multilingual,
- link subject knowledge and language skills in an innovative way,
- give students insights into international research projects
- orientate teaching content globally and enable a change of perspective,
- accompany the mobility of students,
- support internationalisation@home (digitally),
- make international mobility and intercultural exchange more sustainable,
- include diversity, international experience and (language) knowledge of the students,
- enable students to acquire intercultural competences,

Have you experienced courses in the winter semester 22/23, summer semester 2023 or winter semester 2023/24 that are successful examples of international teaching at the HU? Then nominate them by 11 January 2024 for the HU Teaching Award 2023!
Our online nomination form can be found here: https://bolognalab.hu-berlin.de/de/preis/außschreibung/nominieren_form (bilingual)